The International Conference for Biobank Management and QC & Shanghai Biobank Development Workshop 2011

July 8-10, 2011 Galaxy Hotel, Shanghai, China

Key Sessions

- The Development and Management of Biobank
- Standardization and Quality Management System of Biobank
- Quality Control of Biobank

- Learn best practice and international standards: This is the first time that China cooperates with BBMRI, INSERM and UK Biobank, and introduces management standards and quality control system that conform to the international norms.
- Hear the latest in biobank development: This conference invites first-tier experts to give reports, such as Kurt Zatloukal, Georges Dagher, Paul Downey, Du Xiang, Zhang Yong, etc., who all engaged in biobank management and quality control. It integrates the latest biobank management concept, quality control and technical methods, and combines the cases of building various kinds of biobank, and helps the participants acquire in a short period the norms and knowledge of and experience in building advanced biobank.
- Benefit from first-hand experience and case studies: More than 20 speakers from Europe, Asia Pacific and China will be sharing their expert opinions and experiences on the organization and construction of well-known biobank in Europe, the interpretation of the best practice for OECD biobank, the standard collection and preservation of oncology samples, ISO standard in biobank quality management system, and so on.
- Dialogue with leadership and experts: The conference will invite decision makers, executives and experts from well-known universities, institutes, hospitals and pharmaceutical companies. The conference will provide the participants a high-end platform for communications and exchanges. Moreover, the conference will cooperate with many authoritative media to improve its intensive influence.

Conference Overview

As a prerequisite for high-quality biomedical research and key resource for translational research, biobanks can provide a critical competitive advantage for the advancement of biotechnology, human health and disease related activities if they are well collected, characterized and accessible. China has a large patient population, and an increasing number of biobanks have been set up, however, the diversity, lack of standardisation, different rules of access of these biobanks and the different ethical and legal landscape across China has prevented their effective use.

With the theme of "Biobank management and Quality Control", the conference will explore the latest development, share best practice and feature first-hand experience in the management, quality control, other key issues related to biobank development with senior professionals, top academics and leaders from global biobank projects and institutes such as BBMRI, French National Institutes of Health (INSERM), UK Biobank, etc., as well as domestic leading hospitals, institutions and pharmaceutical companies.
